The University of Dar es Salaam School of Law in Collaboration with the Mineral Law in Africa (www.mlia.uct.ac.za) is hosting the VI Mineral Law in Africa (MLiA) Colloquium, at Dar Es Salaam, Tanzania 13 – 15 November 2019.

The Mineral Law in Africa Project is a collaborative effort between academics from across Africa. The major objective of this collaboration is, among others, to analyse the relationship between the law, governance and the promotion of socio-economic development in sub-Saharan Africa in as far as it pertains to minerals, including oil and natural gas.

The main purpose of the colloquium for this year is for the individual country teams to provide feedback on the research and work done since the previous Mineral Law in Africa workshop. A second purpose is to strengthen existing research networks around law and governance of minerals in Africa.

During the Colloquium, several presentations will be made covering issues relating to Labour, Mine Health and Safety; Mining and the Environment; Mining and Technology; Investments, Project Financing and Investor Security and Resource Revenue, Taxation and Royalties.
